

The Central Intelligence Agency has suggested that certain categories of sensitive information recognized by statute--Intelligence Sources and Methods, Communications Intelligence, and Restricted Data--be excepted from the provisions of S. 2543. The Committee believes that these categories of information will remain protected under the statutory exemption presently applicable [Section 552(b)(1)] and under the procedures established in the legislation governing in camera review of contested documents; a specific exception in the FOIA is thus unnecessary.
